What you do at TMH

- You contribute to TMH's vision by monetizing EV batteries on short term markets with focus on German intraday markets
- You continuously maintain and develop our trading IT landscape in line with latest market, portfolio and strategy developments
- You devise and implement highly profitable trading strategies for our distributed flexibility portfolios (mobile & stationary storages) in close collaboration with other teams
- You identify and mitigate risk in our trading activities
- You coach & educate your colleagues
- You won't work in shift-role as we are enthusiastic about highly automated technology

Who you are

- You have several years of trading experience in European energy markets and ideally also in ancillary services
- You have experience with advanced usage of trading software
- You are enthusiastic about the challenges of continuous short-term trading with flexibilities
- You are a true team player and enjoy working in cross-functional teams
- You are fluent in written and spoken English (German is a plus)
